the course on her first appearance in the Women's M. G. A. fixture. Her long game is beyond the ordinary, equal to that of Margaret Curtis or Miss Teacher, and on the course to win. Miss Mix had poor uck to start with and while playing on atmost skill and pluck the titled never offset this bad beginning. Good drives to begin with were followed by mishaps in a bunker, Miss Hyde on her and Miss Mix by overplaying her third. Sherequired 2 to regain the fair green and Miss Hyde won in 5 to 7. On the 530 yard fourth hole Miss Hyde became 3 up, due to the better approach shot, but she lost the short one to follow after driving hole high into the rough. Here Miss Mix gained on the short game and won with a 4. Poor putting now offset Miss Hyde's long game and she only halved Miss Hyde's long game and she only haived the next two, when by rules they should have been to her credit. Miss Mix won the eighth by a long put in 4 to 5, but the better of the drives against the wind on the ninth enabled Miss Hyde to regain a lead of 2 up. Thereafter Miss Hyde was eafe. Except on the sixteenth, where after a screeching drive she pulled her brassle into a ditch and played the next after dropping back out of bounds, Miss Hyde played very event. The cards:
